RATIONALE: As campuses begin to move towards repopulation for the fall 2021 semester, there is growing concern that the CSU lacks a comprehensive plan for campus reopening. While recognizing the different concerns raised at the county and local levels, the CSU nevertheless should develop systemwide guidelines for the safe repopulation of campuses, working through established processes of shared governance* and recognizing the long-term impact that the COVID-19 pandemic will have on faculty, staff, students, administrators, and the surrounding communities.
