

California State University's Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institutions

Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institutions (AANAPISI) are defined under the Higher Education Act (HEA) as colleges or universities with an undergraduate enrollment that is at least 10 percent Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander. Additionally, at least half of the institution's degree-seeking students must be low-income. Fourteen out of the California State University's 23 campuses meet these criteria to compete for AANAPISI grants. AANAPISI funding can be used to strengthen overall institutional capacity and as a pathway for additional federal and private resources to assist underserved communities.

23 Campuses

428,362 Students in Undergraduate Programs

17% ASIAN AMERICAN and NATIVE AMERICAN PACIFIC ISLANDER

14 Campuses Meet AANAPISI Criteria

The California State University is the largest system of senior higher education in the country, with 23 campuses, 481,210 undergraduate and graduate students, and 52,808 faculty and staff. To learn more about the CSU and our partnerships in the Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander community visit us at www.calstate.edu.