THE CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY STUDY OF BASIC NEEDS

INTRODUCTION

College student food and housing insecurity and their potentially significant negative impacts on academic success are still largely unknown and under-reported. Lack of basic needs may impede student success and there is insufficient evidence to fully understand the extent and influence it has on students' outcomes and experiences. Recent empirical studies have uncovered much higher rates of food and housing insecurity in college students than expected.

There have been very few studies of collegiate food and housing insecurity (Broton and Goldrick-Rab, 2016; Dubick, Mathews, and Cady, 2017; Crutchfield, 2016; Goldrick-Rab, 2016; Goldrick-Rab, Richardson, and Hernandez, 2017; Martinez, Maynard, and Ritchie, 2016). Researchers exploring these issues on college and university campuses do so treading new ground with instruments that continue to develop consistent and collective measurement. In 2015, California State University (CSU) Chancellor Timothy White commissioned a study on food and housing security among CSU students. The creators of the instruments for this study, Dr. Rashida Crutchfield and Dr. Jennifer Maguire, are providing these instruments to support the expanded replication of study and collaborative opportunities to ensure the success of students experiencing these social issues.

Phase 1 Methodology

Phase 1 of the study focused on the context of the CSU from the perspective of staff, faculty, and administrators, while seeking to gain a preliminary understanding of the student experience. A mixed-methods approach was used to explore student food and housing security, including interviews and focus groups with staff, faculty, and administrators (N=115), a survey for staff, faculty, and administrators (N=99), student interviews and focus groups (N=16), student surveys (N=1,039) at one campus (CSU, Long Beach). Findings pointed to the need for a CSU system-wide study to further examine issues from students' perspectives. The Phase 1 report can be found on the CSU Chancellor's Office website.

Phase 2 Methodology

A mixed-methods design was utilized to collect student data in Phase 2. Food and housing security among college students currently has no standardized measurement, thus, a comprehensive survey was developed using experimental measures. Humboldt State University (HSU) piloted the survey (N=1,554).

The Phase 2 survey was refined and distributed to students across 23 CSU campuses (N=27,805). Descriptive and multiple-regression statistics identify prevalence and severity of basic needs issues along and indicators of academic performance, health, mental health and wellbeing. Student participants volunteered and were selected for focus groups and interviews based on responses from the survey. Qualitative data was collected at 11 CSU campuses with students (N=213) who identified as housing and/or food insecure. Qualitative data were analyzed in two cycles to develop codes and themes. The Phase 2 results will be released in 2018.

Next steps

Since college and university student food and housing security are a new area of research, the authors of this study seek to encourage collaborative work across the nation. In that effort, this report includes the instrumentation used for all phases of research. Embedded in the instruments are explanations for the various aspects of the instruments, references, resources, and notations to assist others in expanding the field of research in this area.

Uninterrupted versions of the instruments are in the appendices. However, researchers are encouraged to carefully consider all notations associated with the instruments in the report to increase the potential for consistency and ability to compare findings across data sets.

Please note that all researchers who wish to conduct study in this and other areas must seek local approval from their Institutional Review Boards (IRB) to ensure the protection of participating students, who may also need referrals to resources and support during or after study involvement.

Campus community members and researchers are welcome to utilize these tools to further study in this area and ground the development of support strategies and policy development related to college and university students' basic needs.

CSU campuses are asked not to replicate this study to avoid participation fatigue and low response rate for further phases of the study. There are, however, many ways that CSU researchers can expand on this research from a variety of scholarly and practical perspectives. We do encourage CSU researchers to join in the research effort from your varied research agendas. In an effort to further research in a strategic and coordinated manner on these issues, please consult with the CSU Director of Student Wellness and Basic Needs Initiative, Dr. Denise Bevly: (562) 951-4807/ dbevly@calstate.edu.

Notes about the instruments are delineated in blue call-out boxes throughout the document.

Phase 1

CSU System-wide Food and Housing Security Staff, Faculty, and Administrator Survey Instrument

Notes about the instrument:

CSU staff, faculty, and administrators were asked to participate in a brief survey to gather initial data on how they perceived food and housing security on their campuses, and what supports they were aware of or that they provided to their students. University staff, faculty, and administrators from around the country and staff at and research from the National Association for the Education of Homeless Children and Youth (2014) were referenced in the development of instruments for this portion of the survey. Participants were given the response option “Skip question” at the end of all points to meet Institutional Research Board requirements.

Notes about the instrument:

Students may be considered independent for the purposes of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) if they are verified as unaccompanied and homeless or unaccompanied, at risk of homelessness, and self-supporting during the school year in which the application is submitted. By law (CCRAA, 2012; P.L. 110-84; H.R. 2669), verification must be made by one of the following authorities: (a) a McKinney-Vento Act school district liaison; (b) a U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development homeless assistance program director or their designee; (c) a Runaway and Homeless Youth Act program director or their designee; or (d) a financial aid administrator at a college or university. Since students who are homeless often experience challenges accessing financial aid (Crutchfield, Chambers, & Duffield, 2016; NAECHY, 2014), a question specific to financial aid was inserted to explore how financial aid administrators verified student homelessness. Data was disaggregated to include only respondents who selected “Financial Aid” for Q1 to analyze the results specific to financial aid administration. In particular, the results for the following question was specifically reviewed for Financial Aid participants.

How would you determine if a student is experiencing housing insecurity or homelessness? Select all that apply.

1. Financial aid application
2. Meeting with students to make a determination based on their description of the circumstances
3. Request a letter from K - 12 homeless liaison

6. Other _____
7. Not applicable to my current job responsibilities

Staff, Faculty, and Administrator Interview Protocol

Notes about the instrument:

The goal of the Phase 1 qualitative research was to shed light on how staff, faculty, and administrators understand terms like food and housing security, how they observe these or similar concerns on their campuses, and how they respond to students experiencing them. Conversational cues were used to facilitate the participants' focus on these areas during interviews and focus groups; however, the protocols were semi-structured to allow for a range of responses from participants.

Purposive sampling was used to recruit participants. Recruitment letters were sent to Vice Presidents of Student Affairs at all 23 CSU campuses by the CSU Chancellor's Office. These administrators were asked to participate and invite staff, faculty, and administrators on their campuses to participate. Snowball sampling was also used to include a wide variety of campus perspectives.

Thank you for taking time to participate in this study to explore the experiences of students who experience housing insecurity and food insecurity in the CSU system.

This interview will take approximately 30-40 minutes. I will audio record the interview through the conference call application on my computer and will take notes as well. As we proceed, please feel free not to answer any questions. Your participation is voluntary and pseudonyms will be used.

Questions asked in this interview will be grouped in the following themes: your professional role on campus as it relates to these students, perspectives on the issue of housing insecurity and food insecurity on the campus, and services that are provided for this student population campus wide.

Before we begin the interview, please select a pseudonym that we will use throughout the course of your participation in this study. Now, please indicate your chosen pseudonym.

Staff, Faculty, and Administrator Focus Group Protocol

Notes about the instrument:

Focus groups were conducted to develop an expanded view of campus experiences and clarify data gathered in the interview and survey components. Participating campuses were selected to ensure that a variety of geographic, demographic, and campus response perspectives were represented. Campus gatekeepers were asked to invite staff, faculty, and administrators from a variety of arenas (student affairs, financial aid, housing, faculty, program support staff, counseling, etc.) to engender multifaceted data.

Thank you for taking time to participate in this study to explore the experiences of students who experience housing insecurity and food insecurity in the CSU system. Your participation in the phone interview and survey provided a great contribution to the study.

This focus group will take approximately 60-90 minutes. I will audio record the focus group and will take notes as well. As we proceed, please feel free not to answer any questions. Your participation is voluntary and pseudonyms will be used.

Questions will be grouped in the following themes: your professional role on campus as it relates to these students, your perspectives on the issue of housing insecurity and food insecurity on the campus, and your work individually and collectively that provides for this student population campus wide. We will be expanding upon some of the themes you offered in your phone interviews.

Before we begin the focus group, please select a pseudonym that we will use throughout the course of the focus group. Now, please indicate your chosen pseudonym on your name cards. All group members should use these pseudonyms throughout the focus group.

What do you think the perception is of housing and food insecurity for students on your campus?

How are you identifying students who have housing insecurity or students with food insecurities on your campus?

- What are the most beneficial effects of this identification process? Are there ways in which this could be improved?
 - o [Prompt: What have been your experiences in supporting students who are identified]

Some of the resources and supports that you described in your interviews are: [data from interview].

- Are there other services that you can think of that weren't mentioned? Off campus resources that were not listed?
 - o How did they start? Who facilitates success? How are they funded? Evaluated?
- What partnerships have you developed on campus that support your work with students who are experiencing housing and food insecurity?
 - o Prompts for financial aid administrators:
 - ♦ Are there collaborations with financial aid? *When a homeless student is between the ages of 22-23, and no longer considered to be an unaccompanied homeless youth how does your office work with the student to complete the Financial Aid process? (See note). What documentation do you request for a Professional Judgment Appeal? What other professionals do you work with if any to make a determination?

Notes about the instrument:

The proposed 2018-2019 FAFSA removes the definition of “youth” for unaccompanied homeless youth from the FAFSA because the term was specifically for individuals age 21 and under. As of June 2017, the 2018-2019 FAFSA has yet to be finalized; however, it appears likely that beginning October 1, 2017, all unaccompanied homeless individuals under 24 will have the same determination process. The question of determinations for 22-23 year olds will not be relevant once the 2018-2019 FAFSA is finalized.

- ♦ How does your office go about making subsequent year determinations of a student’s unaccompanied homeless youth status?
- ♦ What documentation do you request to confirm a student’s status as food or housing insecure when determining eligibility for campus services?
- ♦ Do there appear to be documentation challenges for students who have claimed determinations of unaccompanied, homeless, or food insecure status?
- ♦ Are students referred to support services once identified?
- ♦ In what ways do other staff, faculty, or administrators support your work?
- o Are there collaborations with housing? Are there links or barriers to housing for these student populations in campus housing?
 - What off campus partnerships have you developed to better assist these students?

Barriers

- What are some of the barriers that you have experienced when working with students who experience food and housing insecurity?
- What are some of the best practices that you have implemented on your campus to better serve students?
- What gaps in services do you observe?

Evaluation and Further Training

- Do you track the retention or graduation rates of housing and/or food insecure students on your campus?
- Have you ever worked with the State Coordinator for Homeless Children and Youth, or a school district McKinney-Vento Liaison to find out more about this population of students? What have your experiences been like?
- What resources do you need to better assist you with providing support for students who are food or housing insecure? Making determinations of unaccompanied homeless youth status? Trainings, briefs, presentation?

Is there anything else that you want to tell us about your experiences with students who experience housing and food insecurity?

Is there anything that we didn’t talk about that we should talk about?

Phase 2

CSU System-wide Food and Housing Security Student Survey Instrument

Notes about the instrument:

This survey was developed in collaboration with many research, policy, and student affairs content experts. Multiple instruments created by other researchers and research entities are also included. The survey is broken up into sub-sections that may be used separately or together: a) student demographics; b) food security; c) homelessness; d) housing security; e) supports; f) health; and, g) wellness.

Demographics

How old are you (in years)?

What is your marital status?

1. Single
2. Living with a partner
3. Married
4. Divorced
5. Separated

Gender identity

Notes about the instrument:

To measure gender identity we recommend using the, “two-step approach” developed by Gender Identity in U.S. Surveillance (GenIUSS) (2014) and interdisciplinary team facilitated by The Williams Institute, which is part of the UCLA School of Law in 2014. The questions can be found in the report titled, Best Practices for Asking Questions to Identify Transgender and Other Gender Minority Respondents on Population-Based Surveys, retrieved from, <https://williamsinstitute.law.ucla.edu/research/census-lgbt-demographics-studies/geniuss-report-sept-2014/>. Recommendations and considerations for analysis are included in that report.

The following questions apply to your household.

Note: A household is determined by the number of people you purchase and prepare food with. This may or may not include your roommates.

For example: if you have 2 roommates but you do not purchase and prepare your food with them equally you would be a household of 1. Or, in rare occasions if you and your roommates always purchase all of your food equally, then you would be a household of 3.

6. 6
7. More than 6
8. Prefer not to answer

How much is your household's gross monthly income (before taxes and not including financial aid)?

Food Security

Notes about the instrument:

This question was used to determine the “food household” as defined by federal SNAP and provided a logic jump to either the household or individual version of the U.S. Adult Food Security Survey Module (10-item).

Do you share most of your meals with people living in your household (i.e., family members/roommates) or manage your own food arrangements?

1. Share meals [logic jump to household module]
2. Manage my own meals [logic jump to individual module]

Household Module

Notes about the instrument:

To determine household food security, the U.S. Adult Food Security Survey Module (10-item) was used. “We” statements were utilized in the survey questions to reflect a shared household food budget. The questions were modified by using 30-day time segments (e.g., “in the last 30-days), rather than 12-month (e.g., “in the last 12-months”). The intention of the modification is to better discern how university students fare when school is in session. Students may be in a number of different school, living, and employment arrangements over a 12-month period and we believe the shorter reference period is more suitable. Additionally, to increase understanding of resources students may be accessing while enrolled in courses, the 30-day time period is ideal. One concern with the 12-month time period is that students may be responding to questions about food security and resource use that occurred while they were not enrolled in school, making it more difficult to identify clear intervention points. However, if the study is intended for the annual prevalence of food security among college students, then the 12-month reference is recommended. USDA ERS also recommends the 30-day reference for the survey module for colleges and universities if the goal is to understand hardships faced by current students. The U.S. Adult Food Security Survey Module (10-item), can be found at <https://www.ers.usda.gov/topics/food-nutrition-assistance/food-security-in-the-us/survey-tools/>

For the following statements, please state whether they were often true, sometimes true, or never true for your household in the last 30 days.

Notes about the instrument:

To determine individual food security, the U.S. Adult Food Security Survey Module (10-item), was used. “I” statements were utilized in the survey questions to reflect an individual household food budget. Homelessness

Notes about the instrument:

At the time of this study, there is no standardized, validated tool to assess homelessness for college students. This instrument assess housing status and homelessness, with the following questions to align with the definition of homelessness dictated by the McKinney Vento Homeless Assistance Act (PL100-77). Specifically, the instrument is developed to assess for both the definition used by the U.S. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the U.S. Department of Education, both drawn from differing subsections of McKinney Vento. In addition to in-text references, representatives from National Association for the Education of Homeless Children and Youth (NAEHCY), Schoolhouse Connection, and Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority (LAHSA) were consulted with to develop homelessness definitions used for the survey.

HUD defines homelessness as sheltered (in a HUD funded emergency shelter, transitional housing, and supportive housing) and unsheltered (on the streets, in abandoned buildings, or other places not meant for human habitation) [Homeless Emergency Assistance and Rapid Transition to Housing Act of 2009 (P.L. 111-22, Section 1003)].

The U. S. Department of Education uses the education sub-title of McKinney-Vento Act's definitions of homelessness, which includes youth who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence; and unaccompanied, which includes youth not in the physical custody of a parent or guardian. It also used at-risk of homelessness to refer to students whose housing may cease to be fixed, regular, and adequate (20 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq., 42 U.S.C. §11434a(2)(A); 42 U.S.C. §11434a(6)). This broader definition was used as the foundation for homelessness determinations for K-12 students and therefore allows for comparison of data with elementary and secondary educational studies, which have been shown to be more commonly descriptive of youth or young adult homelessness (Ausikaitis, et al. 2015; Mawhinney-Rhoads & Stahler, 2006; Tierney, Gupton, & Hallett, 2008). This education definition of homelessness is legally required as a determinant for rights and access for students in the K-12, but is also legally required for post-secondary programs under the Higher Education Act. Higher education requirements include stipulations for FAFSA financial needs analysis and eligibility for TRIO and GEAR UP programs.

Many people, particularly youth who are homeless based on both the HUD and U. S. Department of Education definitions may not identify using that label or be hesitant to do so (Farrugia, 2011; Tierney and Hallett, 2012; Toolis & Hammack, 2015). The survey questions measure indicators of homelessness in the last 30-days and 12-months based on HUD and McKinney-Vento definitions of homelessness. There is an item that does ask "Since starting college have you ever been homeless?" However, other indicators are used to determine incidence of homelessness. Additionally, participants were asked for the number of moves a student made in the past year to measure housing stability.

HUD defined

- At a shelter
- In a camper
- In transitional housing or independent living program
- At a group home such as halfway house or residential program for mental health or substance abuse
- At a treatment center (such as detox, hospital, etc.)
- Outdoor location such as street, sidewalk, or alley, bus or train stop, campground or woods, park, beach, or riverbed, under bridge or overpass
- In a closed area/space with a roof not meant for human habitation such as abandoned building, car or truck, van, RV, or camper, encampment or tent, or unconverted garage, attic, or basement

U. S. Department of Education includes all HUD level homeless indicators and adds

- Temporarily staying with a relative, friend, or couch surfing until I find other housing
- Temporarily at a hotel or motel without a permanent home to return to (not on vacation or business travel)

Since starting college have you ever been homeless?

Housing Security

Notes about the instrument:

College and university student homelessness and housing security are key components to understanding student success and we are still in the process of developing collective definitions and standard measurements. To explore housing security of housed students we used a recently developed scale (Frederick, Chwalek, Hughes, Karabanow, & Kidd, 2014). This housing security scale was developed to measure common dimensions of housing security, a concept closely linked with homelessness.

To score the responses, add up the points. Each selection is assigned 1 point (Strongly Disagree = 1; Disagree=2; Not sure or Neither= 3; Agree=4; and Strongly Agree=5. Reverse score item numbers 1, 11, 12, 13. Note: The adapted scale resulted in new total of 15 items. Higher numbers are more housing stable. Lower numbers are less housing stable. Considerations for further analysis can be found in the journal article (Frederick, Chwalek, Hughes, Karabanow, & Kidd, 2014).

Please choose how strongly you agree or disagree with the following statements:

Now thinking about your physical health, which includes physical illness and injury, for how many days during the past 30 days was your physical health not good?

Now thinking about your mental health, which includes stress, depression, and problems with emotions, for how many days during the past 30 days was your mental health not good?

During the past 30 days, for about how many days did poor physical or mental health keep you from doing your usual activities, such as self-care, work, school, or recreation?

Mental Health

Notes about the instrument:

The College Students Presenting Problems Scale was selected for use to determine the nature of students' psychological concerns in relationship to their level of housing and food security. The measure has been validated as a baseline measure in college student populations (Erdur-Baker, Aberson, Barrow, & Draper, 2006). Recommendations and considerations for analysis are included in the article. Below is a list of circumstances that students sometimes face. Carefully read each one. For each, mark the response indicating your current level of distress.

Focus Group/Interview Recruitment Questions

Notes about the instrument:

Students were given the option to volunteer to participate in interviews and focus groups at the end of the survey. Of those who volunteered, participants were recruited based on responses from the survey.

Students who scored low and/or very-low food secure on the U.S. Adult Food Security Survey Module (10-item) in the last 30 days were selected for recruitment.

Students who were housing insecure as indicated by marking that they slept in one of the following places in the last 30-days or 12-months were selected for recruitment:

- a) At a shelter
- b) In a camper
- c) In transitional housing or independent living program
- d) Outdoor location such as street, sidewalk, or alley, bus or train stop, campground or woods, park, beach, or riverbed, under bridge or overpass
- e) In a closed area/space with a roof not meant for human habitation such as abandoned building, car or truck, van, RV, or camper, encampment or tent, or unconverted garage, attic, or basement
- f) Temporarily staying with a relative, friend, or couch surfing until I find other housing
- g) Temporarily at a hotel or motel without a permanent home to return to (not on vacation or business travel)
- h) At a treatment center (such as detox, hospital, etc.)
- i) At a group home such as halfway house or residential program for mental health or substance abuse

Please indicate whether we have permission to email or text you for any of the following. Check all that apply.

1. As an entrant in the drawing for $40 gift card and to contact you if you win.
2. If you are interested in participating in an interview or focus group about your experiences with housing and/or food insecurity. You will receive a $15 gift card.
3. If you are willing to participate in future research about your experience as a college student with food insecurity and/or housing displacement.

Please provide your email address and/or mobile phone number if we have permission to email or text you for any of the reasons you just indicated.

Student Interview/Focus Group Protocol

Notes about the instrument:

Student participants were recruited based on their responses to the survey instrument and their documented willingness to participate in interviews and focus groups at the end of the survey. Please note that the term “homeless” was deliberately not used in the protocol and was not mentioned unless the student utilized the label. Many people, particularly youth, who are determined homeless based on both the HUD and U. S. Department of Education definitions may not identify as homeless (Farrugia, 2011; Toolis & Hammack, 2015). Studies conducted by Terenzini, Rendon, Upcraft, Millar, Allison, Gregg, and Jalomo (1994) and Unrau (2007) were referenced in the creation of this protocol.

The interview and focus group protocol included very broad introductory questions in order to build rapport with participants. Some students were hesitant to discuss their experience initially, but quickly chose to discuss their experiences and recommendations for support once introduced to the interviewers and co-participants. Care should be taken to build rapport with and among participants. Asking about life in general, how college is going, or to describe a typical day provided a purposeful entry into the conversation. The protocol is semi-structured to be guided by participants’ responses rather than rigid guides to data collection or attempts to answer all questions.

Thank you for taking time to participate in this study to explore your experiences as students in the [college/university system]. Your participation in the survey was very helpful and we hope to learn more about your experiences.

[Principal Investigator or a research assistant will review the informed consent.]

This [interview/focus group] will take approximately 60-90 minutes. As mentioned in the informed consent, I will audio record the [interview/focus group] and will take notes as well. As we proceed, please feel free not to answer any questions.

Questions asked in this [interview/focus group] will be grouped in the following themes: your experiences as students [a student] in the [college/university system], perspectives on what things have been barriers to your success in college, and what people, supports, and services are most important for you in college. We will be expanding upon some of the themes you offered in your surveys.

Before we begin the [interview/focus group], please select a pseudonym that we will use throughout the [group/interview]. Now, please indicate your chosen pseudonym on your name cards. All group members should use these pseudonyms throughout the focus group.
